Purse seines outlawed in Hancock

By BRENT MACEY
The Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation has outlawed the use of purse seines within one mile of the shoreline of Hancock and Harrison Counties.

"In order to preserve fish populations, this ban was imposed," a release from the commission states.

The release notes the net is "much more efficient than other types of net and gear" used for catching fish.

Hancock County Representative J.P. Compretta Friday stated he had approached commission officials several months ago and requested the action be taken.

He noted he has had numerous complaints from local Hancock sports fishermen who claim commercial boats using purse seines sweep close to shore and take large quantities of mullet.

He stated the fishermen have complained that boats using the nets near shore are "ruining" sports fishing.

Compretta attempted to have both the city of Bay St. Louis and Waveland pass ordinances against using the nets last year.

Although Compretta was successful in convincing Waveland officials to pass an ordinance forbidding the use of the nets, a Bay St. Louis resident complained at a Bay Council meeting.

The council took no action as a result. Compretta Friday stated, "Having the commission pass the law saves a lot of problems in having to have each individual city pass an ordinance."

The law became effective March 9. In another unrelated matter, Compretta noted this legislative session will be ending next week.

He noted he is on a conference committee with two other representatives from the House and three from the Senate which is attempting to reach an agreement on a bill which will create guidelines for allowing non-violent prisoners to work for cities and counties across the state.

Following the approval of at least two committee members from each house, the bill can be filed and then voted on, Compretta said.

"We are pretty close to coming to an agreement," he stated. "We hope to have the bill filed by Monday."

He noted Sheriff's Departments, the District Attorney and the Mississippi Department of Corrections wanted a procedure established for working with prisoners which would be uniform across the state.

He noted Hancock County and Bay St. Louis have been utilizing prison help in the past several months.

Also Compretta noted he is a member of another conference committee dealing with a bill which would establish a "pretrial intervention program."

He explained the bill will establish a program enabling first offenders to remain out of jail.

The program would require offenders keep a regular job and also do additional work which will benefit the public.

Following completion of the program, the offenders record would be taken off the books, Compretta said.

He stated that bill is also expected to be filed Monday.

Squad investigating Shoreline house fire

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Hancock County Arson Investigation Squad is attempting to determine cause of a Thursday night three-alarm blaze which damaged a Shoreline Park residence.

Chief Bill Field Jr. of the East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department Friday said the fire at the residence of Norman Koch on Coral Street near the Avenue D was reported at 10:35 p.m. by neighbors.

Investigator Jay Marsh of the county squad reported that Koch is a tenant at the residence owned by a Mr. Espy of New Orleans.

"When firefighters arrived the rear bedroom of the home was totally engulfed in flames," Marsh stated.

"An explosion was also reported, but we determined blast was caused by an implosion caused by the fire seeking air," he explained.

Field said in addition to two East Hancock units the Bay St. Louis and Waveland Fire Departments each sent one unit.

He noted that firefighters remained at the scene until 2 a.m. Friday to snuff out any possible hot spots which could re-ignite the structure.

Marsh said Koch was not home when the fire occurred.

The investigator said about one-half of the structure was saved from the flames, but smoke damage occurred throughout the house.

"The fire departments did a good job of stopping the fire," Marsh noted. Bay firefighters responding to the blaze included Capt. Mike Willumitis and Firefighters Arthur Farve, Bill Field III and Marty Blackstock.

Waveland department members responding included Chief Don McIntyre and Firefighters Glen Jackson, John Holderman and Dr. William Bradford.

Fairgrounds officers elected for two years

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The election of officers to the Hancock County Fair and Livestock Association, and discussion of a new contract needed for persons, organizations and promoters renting the arena and building were the main topics of a Tuesday meeting.

Officers elected for the next two years are: Larry Koenenn, president; Walter Turcotte, 1st vice-president; Roland (Boobie) Cuevas, 2nd vice-president; Pat Woodcock, secretary; and Ethel Breaux, treasurer. Mrs. Breaux will also serve the association as bookkeeper.

A new contract to be drawn up by the commission for anyone interested in renting the building will require the signature of two officers, as well as those renting the premises.

The condition of the building was discussed, especially the floors after the building's use by a recent promoter of a country and western show.

Turcotte stated, "We checked the building over before the refund of the deposit was made and it looked pretty clean. A truck was then driven in later to pick up drink boxes and it was after a hard rain. Some of the stains were from the truck and where the drink boxes were."

It was also noted the promoter was to have a deputy on duty from noon the previous day until the next, but he was sent home at midnight by the promoter.

"A group will also study the rate structures and update them for the use of the facilities and make them public, so everyone will know," Koenenn added.

The president said this was necessary because people have told him they have heard all different types of rates.

Koenenn noted, "The Fair and Livestock Association has $28,000 for capital improvements at the fair grounds. We have purchased $1,800 of pipe to be used for the renovation of the arena, pens and shutes."

Turcotte is to secure transportation for the pipe which has been purchased in New Orleans. It is oil drilling pipes of various dimensions.

The recent rate increase for utilities by Coast Electric was discussed as one of the reasons for possibly increasing rental fees.

Jay Heitzmann was unanimously selected to serve as the chairman of the FAIRGROUNDS—Page 2A

Emergency declared on Bay sewer breaks

The Bay St. Louis City Council declared two sewer line breaks in the city an emergency and agreed to advertise for bids at a recent special meeting.

Councilman Sheldon Seuzeneau noted a sewer break near the intersection of Necaise Street and Union Street is some one foot deep in an area eight feet by eight feet. The other sewer line break is located near 233 St. Charles Street.

In other business, the council agreed to advertise for radar guns for the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

Boy apprehended in Waveland heist

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
A boy is in custody of the Hancock County Youth Court charged in a Thursday morning burglary of a Waveland residence.

Chief Donald Dorn of the Waveland Police Department Friday reported the 14-year-old boy was charged with burglary of a residence on Coral Street.

The boy was apprehended by Patrolman Veronica Garcia, allegedly while two

A Shoreline Park woman is scheduled for a Thursday night Waveland City Court hearing charged with shoplifting $100 of merchandise about 2 p.m. from a local store.

The woman, identified as Veronica Garcia, 40, of Coral Street, was arrested in front of the store by Patrolman Veronica

Garcia, allegedly while two

Waveland woman claims victory in pothole suit

By BRENT MACEY
A Waveland resident claims she has won a law suit against the City of Bay St. Louis for some $104 in damages she says her car sustained after striking two separate potholes in the city last year.

Linda Penrose Friday said the city did not appeal a November ruling by Justice Court Judge John Chevis which found the city liable for negligence in failing to repair the potholes.

"I think they will be cutting a check at the next city council meeting," she said.

The potholes Penrose claims she struck on two separate occasions were located near the intersection of South Beach Boulevard and US-90, and near the Bay St. Louis Police Department on Old Spanish Trail.

However, Penrose claims the city will pay.

"If they don't we'll file a writ of seizure and get the sheriff to confiscate some city property," she said.

Penrose stated she thought a city typewriter would be suitable compensation for a broken ball joint, shock absorber and brake work required after the incident.

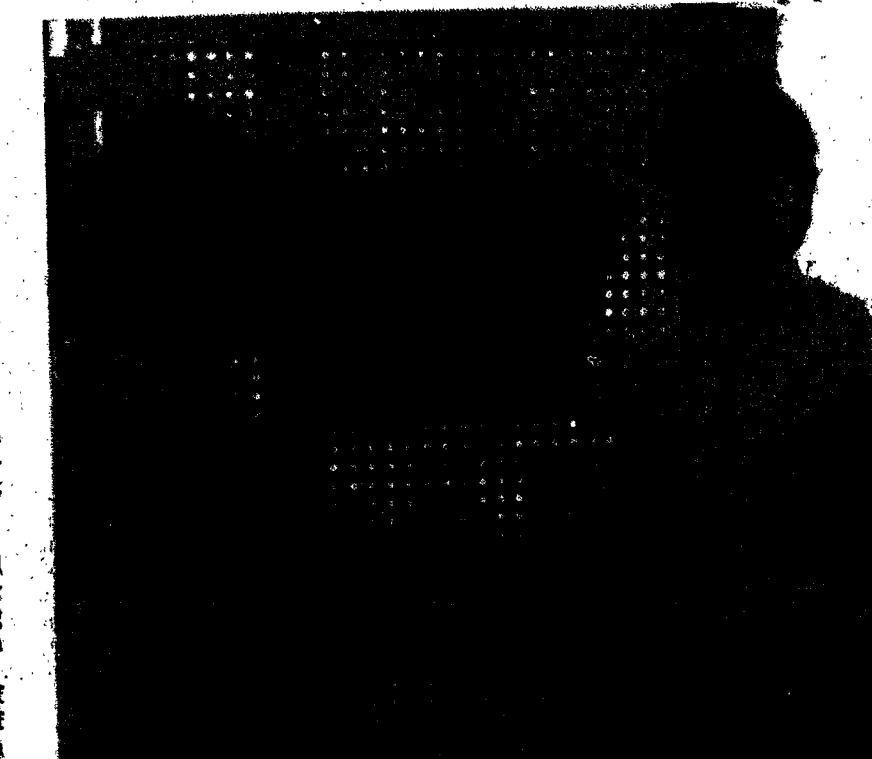

"I think it was worth every minute of it," Penrose said about her legal battle against the city which has lasted some eight months.

"Have you noticed how they are working to get the streets fixed," she said.

"I think it shows you can fight city hall," she added.

Hancock employment figures improving

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County's February unemployment rate is well below state and national jobless figures during the same period based on recently released Mississippi Employment Service statistics.

The county's jobless rate dropped from 8.4 percent in January to 7.2 percent the following month.

Mississippi's unemployment rate dropped from 10.7 percent in January to 10.2 percent in February.

National rates increased during those two months from 9.4 percent in January to 9.6 percent the following month.

Hancock's civilian labor force in those two months remained at 8,690, but the number of unemployed decreased from 730 in January to 630 in February.

O. H. Simmons, State Employment Security Commission executive director, says, "Last year's February unemployment rate was 8.7 percent.

Commission figures show 106,300 unemployed and 953,300 employed out of a state civilian labor force of 1,061,600. Initial unemployment insurance claims statewide totalled 27,752 for February.

Counties with the highest unemployment rates in February are Yalobusha, with an unemployment rate of 31.3 percent; Sharkey, with 22.6 percent; and Jefferson, with 20.9 percent.

Rankin, Oktibbeha, and Issaquena Counties report the lowest jobless rates in February. Rankin lists a rate of 4.3 percent; Oktibbeha is 4.9 percent; and Issaquena is 5.3 percent.

Some 42 of the state's 82 counties report unemployment rates of 10 percent or higher in February.

About 24 counties show an increase in unemployment rates from January to February, while 57 report decreases. The unemployment rate in one county, Tishomingo, is unchanged.

Dumestre denies statement

C.J. Dumestre, chairman and one of the members of the Hancock County Animal Control Commission who resigned Tuesday denied a statement attributed to him in a story about the six of eight commission members resigning.

Dumestre denies the statement there was no way I could serve on the commission anymore. It was becoming an eight-hour-a-day job.

Dumestre said he should have been told at the time that the commission would be required to handle the animal control problem without the support of the naval construction unit.

There seems to be an unending battle over location of an animal shelter in Hancock County.

It is really frustrating to work so hard on something and have it fall through at the last minute.

We can see why six of the eight members of the Hancock County Animal Control Commission resigned this week.

The parties objecting to the location of the latest site had a good reason to gripe, especially when they were not advised the location was not going to be the one they were told it would be.

The commission members, we understand, were not the ones who moved the location.

The one thing that amazes us is how the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland took some action when the petition was submitted by persons objecting to the animal shelter's location, yet the Hancock County Board of Supervisors merely entered it into their minutes.

If anyone should be spearheading the construction of the animal shelter, it should be the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, as they are the overall rulers of the county, and yet they do nothing we can see in regards to the matter.

Think about this, half of the population lives in the county and we are sure there must be just as many animal problems in the county as in the two municipalities.

We recently received a letter from Larry and Maryjo Krueck of Waveland commenting on how they really appreciated the attention given their son Zak when he was recently taken to the emergency room of Hancock General Hospital.

The couple also mentioned how their neighbors were so very helpful and how they feel it is a privilege to be a part of this community.

Letters like this always make us feel good, because we know there are some very fine people living in our area.

This warm weather—Oh, we had a little cool snap on Friday—is the time of year when many folks think about camping.

Many "hardy" souls do camp throughout the year, but many more will be doing so for the next six months.

We are very fortunate to have two nice camping areas in Hancock County in Buccaneer State Park and McLeod Park.

These parks were constructed for the benefit of everyone using them with restrooms and other picnic-related facilities.

It seems some folks have a good time destroying these facilities and some even harassing campers.

The officials we have spoken to in recent days have told us they will not tolerate campers being harassed or the destruction of camping facilities.

We know of an instance where a party was harassed by some young people a couple of weeks ago at Buccaneer. We have also been told about some vandalism taking place in the restrooms, and McLeod has had its share of vandalism.

Persons using these facilities can be of a very big help to park officials by notifying them if they see anything going on unusual while they are camping.

We have our parks, they are for everyone to use and enjoy themselves, let's keep it that way.

Remember this, the persons caught destroying park equipment or harassing campers will get the book thrown at them.

Numerous opportunities have been afforded residents in recent years to learn cardio pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) which can be used in medical emergencies.

One never really knows when this type of training can be of help, or under what circumstances.

We know of one case in particular in which Bay St. Louis resident Kathy Ann LeBlanc Turner had learned CPR, was able to render assistance to a young boy. Unfortunately the lad later died at the hospital, but Ms. Turner's quick actions may have kept the youth alive until professional assistance arrived at the scene.

There is a need for more persons to be trained as CPRs and we will let you know when more classes are to be taught.

We received a telephone call Friday from a member of the staff of the library in Bay St. Louis telling us how they had received a lost library card in the mail sent to them from Kmart.

Our librarians are very impressed with the concern of the personnel at Kmart in taking the time to return the library card.

It is very good to have merchants in our area who are concerned with everyone. We feel this is one of the reasons why everyone should want to shop at home.

While on the subject of the library, an art display by the students of Nel Ducomb is on display at the library in Bay St. Louis.

We are always amazed at the amount of talent our communities really have and how some of it now being used.

If you have not visited the library to see the exhibit, we urge you to try and drop by before April 6.

The exhibit has been extended until April 6, according to Prima Wismack, director, so the art will still be on display when the local elected officials will attend a special appreciation luncheon at the facility.

We have also heard about the many good comments made in reference to Nel Ducomb's exhibit at Diamondhead during the Spring Pilgrimage.

We have known Nel for many years, and know she is a very talented person. Keep up the good work Nel!

Urban noise pollution no sound of music

The urban resident is surrounded by noise at home, at work and out of doors. Some of that noise, when excessive and continuous, can be hazardous to hearing, according to the American Medical Association.

Trucks, buses, cars, motorcycles and rail mass transit systems, as well as jet airplanes, contribute to the problem. In the home, the kitchen generates the most noise with its various labor-saving devices, including garbage disposals, food blenders, dishwashers, and vacuum cleaners.

Recreational equipment, such as television sets, phonographs and tape playback systems are major culprits.

Studies have shown, for example, that electronically amplified music may lead to hearing loss. When tape recordings of music are played at a level of 110 decibels, or about the intensity of a riveting machine, up to 16 percent of listeners might be adversely and permanently affected.

It has been estimated that more than six million workers in the United States are subjected on the job to noise levels hazardous to hearing. The potential workmen's compensation cost of noise-induced hearing loss in industry is greater than for any other occupational disease.

Noise-induced hearing loss is due to degeneration of sensory hair cells in the inner ear. Since these hair cells cannot be replaced or repaired, this degeneration will result in some permanent loss of hearing.

Continuous exposure to noise above 90 decibels, or about the intensity of motorcycles at 25 feet, will almost certainly lead to some hearing impairment.

There is evidence, though, that when exposure to loud noise is interrupted by periods of relative quiet, the hazard to hearing is reduced.

Many people believe that a gradual loss of hearing naturally accompanies the aging process. It has been shown, however, that some elderly African natives living in quiet areas have been able to retain a hearing capability equal to that of an urban 20-year-old.

Such data suggests that our modern, noisy environment may be responsible for some premature loss of hearing.

BAY ST. LOUIS CAVERN—A deep hole undermines a city of Bay St. Louis.

Joe Miller of New Orleans owns two rental houses. Miller says he has repeatedly asked city officials to fill the hole and level off mounds of dirt along the sidewalk fronting his property which he alleges the city created while locating water and sewer lines to serve the residences. Miller also reports he is unable to mow the area shown because of rough terrain created by the work. He also charges that city crews caused the sidewalk in the background to crack. The property owner adds that he has received no response after his numerous appeals.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions
About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

I've noticed several "public notices" in our local paper by the city asking for bids on heavy equipment, water tanks, and other items of equipment they cannot get locally. Why don't they advertise where it might do some good?

A Local Taxpayer.

Dear ALT: It is the duty of public officials to buy at the lowest or best price at every opportunity.

Nowhere are they precluded from sending notice of the intended purchase to known vendors. Publishing each notice locally is part of the process, but it is by no means all that can and should be done.

Furthermore, the notices are sometimes read farther away than you might expect. Not only do many suppliers subscribe to local papers, but quite a few also subscribe to clipping services.

The function of a clipping service is to go through every issue of every paper in the area they serve, "clipping out" or photo-copying articles and notices their clients may need to know about.

The suppliers are thus notified of the intended purchase via the service.

The reasoning behind such a law is many-fold: It allows all local dealers the opportunity to bid; it notifies citizens, like you, in advance, what your city council is doing; it requires a legal "cooling off period" so purchases cannot be made on the spur of the moment; and the list of reasons could go on and on.

As you know, in your day-to-day affairs it's easy to get in the habit of buying from the same businesses. It may be convenience, because you like them, that they give you a little extra, or because it is your brother or brother-in-law.

But none of these reasons for purchasing are supposed to be considered by public officials in their purchases of goods and services. They are to buy from the lowest and best bidders period.

So, be assured that your city fathers aren't wasting money advertising for these items.

They are wisely complying with a very reasonable and effective regulation generally applied everywhere in the United States. Legislation like this can't assure good, honest government, but violation of required bid procedures is much easier to trace, and less messy to prove, than violation of the public trust by imprudent purchasing.

Therefore any questions of malfeasance would revolve around whether the law was complied with, not if the prices paid were the lowest and best, or if there was any intent to defraud.

DOWN HOME

By Darlene Underwood

Hancock County Extension

It's been a while since my last news column. Things have been extremely busy since the first of the year but the pace may slow down in the near future. Below are classes planned for April. Mark your calendar so you won't forget to attend the ones you are interested in. Many of our classes cannot be offered again.

ARRANGING SILK AND DRIED FLOWERS: Madona Boos, owner of a local shop will be conducting a class on ways to utilize silk and dried flowers on Thursday, April 1, 1:30-3 p.m. in the meeting room of the Bay St. Louis Library. Madona will demonstrate making corsages, dogwood trees and wall decorations. The class is free.

NEW BANKRUPTCY LAWS: As you might have heard, bankruptcy laws were changed last year. How might this effect your financial future? Join us as Norine Barnes, Extension Money Management Specialist, discusses changes in the bankruptcy laws and their effects on the consumer. This program will be held on Tuesday, April 13, 10 a.m. in the meeting room in the back of Gulf National Bank just off Highway 90, Bay St. Louis.

MICROWAVE COOKERY: Back by popular demand! Charlotte Lamey, Energy Communications Specialist from Mississippi Power Company, will conduct a Microwave Cooking Program on Thursday, April 15, 1 p.m. in the Exhibit Building of the Fairgrounds of Longfellow Road.

If you are a new microwave appliance owner, thinking about purchasing one in the near future, or just need help in utilizing an appliance you've had for a while, join us on April 15. There is no charge for the class, nor is pre-registration required.

GROWING AND PRESERVING HERBS: Along with the "back to basics" movement, more people are becoming interested in growing, using, and preserving fresh herbs from their own gardens. John Davis, Area Extension Horticulture Specialist, will teach a basic and practical class on growing fresh herbs in the home garden or landscape. The class will be held Tuesday, April 20, 1:30 p.m., in the Agriculture Building Auditorium, 405 Necaise Ave., Bay St. Louis.

FOLK ARTS FESTIVAL: We were extremely lucky to be picked as one of the only six counties in Mississippi to host a Folk Arts Festival. This will be held during the week of April 19-21 at Hancock County Library. The majority of the demonstrations and exhibits will be held at the Bay St. Louis Branch. The schedule includes: Monday, Musicians, 10 a.m.-7:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Fishing Crafts, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Wednesday, Needle & Household Crafts 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; and Thursday, Games 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

Although each day will have some outstanding exhibits, don't miss Wednesday's Needle and Household Craft demonstrations and exhibits. There will be demonstrations of tatting (lace making), soap making, rush weaving (chair bottoms), broom making, quilting, butter churning and pine needle weaving.

Also, two Harrison County Extension Homemakers will be demonstrating soft sculpture where they will make the doll's faces and soft sculpture boxes and baskets.

Plan to come early in the day as some of the exhibitors have to leave early.

Unique pine needle artistry to be featured

By JORJELET

Lucille Luke who lives with her husband Leroy Luke, 801 St. John Street in Bay St. Louis has been selected to illustrate pine straw basket making the Folk Art Festival scheduled by the Hancock County Library System beginning April 19 and continuing throughout that entire week.

Currently Mrs. Luke serves as president of the Bay Homemakers Club and this is her second term as its president and 25th year of membership in the organization.

She was graduated from St. Joseph's Academy with the class of 1939, and has been a life-long resident of Hancock County, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton H. Morel Sr.

The pine needle baskets made by Mrs. Luke are truly decorative and artistic. Long Leaf Yellow Pine needles are gathered from the trees growing near Laurel.

"These needles are pulled green from the trees," Mrs. Luke explained, adding, "They come off very easily and make them home in the basic garbage or lawn can."

Mrs. Luke said, "It takes about six weeks of drying and fluffing before the needles are ready to be worked. I have a screen frame on which I spread the green leaves. Air circulates from both the top and the bottom since the frame is placed several inches off the floor."

About once a week Mrs. Luke turns and fluffs the needles. In this manner they do not need any processing with oil or water, and are not brittle. At this point the needles are "bunched" and ready for fashioning into baskets or candleholders.

Mrs. Luke said she got interested in making pine needle baskets after watching a workshop demonstration conducted by a home economist.

Meeting with members of the Bay Homemakers Club is one of the highlights of Mrs. Luke's life.

She says the needles are dried in the sun for six weeks. The needles are then fluffed and ready to be worked. Mrs. Luke said she got interested in making pine needle baskets after watching a workshop demonstration conducted by a home economist.

Although she really hasn't a "favorite" quilt pattern, Mrs. Luke feels that "The Fan" is colorful and not too difficult for beginners who would like to learn the pleasure of precise stitching, accurate cutting, and personalized selection of materials.

"I have never sold one of my quilts," Mrs. Luke said. "By the time one is finished so much of my own personal preference has been put into it — well, it just seems like a part of the family."

Dolls? Well, that's different. Character dolls such as Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy are cute and cuddly — fun to make and fun to place where they'll be loved.

"We feel that Mrs. Luke's pine needle baskets will be well received at the Folk Art Festival and nothing could better meet our regional requirements — the longleaf pine grows well in this area which is a part of our "pine belt."

"It's leaves, or needles, are flexible, dark green and sometimes grow as long as 18 inches," according to Mrs. Prims Wusnack, librarian for Hancock County Libraries. In further identifying the tree, Mrs. Wusnack said, "The long leaf yellow pine is also known as the Southern Hard Pine. Its timber is used in construction of bridges, ships, and where strong, durable wood is required."

Bay Little Theatre slates 'Cat And The Canary' run

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will present its second production of this season, a melodrama entitled, "The Cat And The Canary," Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Thursday is Family Night and all students eighth grade and under and accompanied by parent will be admitted for half-price.

Saturday is Champagne Night with champagne served during intermissions.

"The Cat And The Canary," by John Willard, takes place in September 1941, 20 years after the death of the very eccentric and slightly insane Cyrus Canby West.

His six remaining heirs gather for the reading of the will and from that point on, strange things begin to happen at Glendiff Manor, the old family mansion.

Who will be the heir to the West fortune and what evil lurks in the remaining heirs? Come to the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre for an evening of fun, mystery, and a startling clue at every turn.

Doors of the theatre on Boardman Avenue will open at 7:30 p.m. with curtain time at 8:15 p.m.

Admission is $4 and tickets will be available at the door.

Dear Mr. Page:

Please allow me to take this means of extending my warmest congratulations to the Bay Senior High School band for being selected to represent Mississippi in the 1982 Cherry Blossom Festival. I know they will represent our State in an excellent manner, and I look forward to their visit in Washington. I feel sure their participation in the Cherry Blossom Festival will be a most enjoyable and memorable experience.

Nuptial Mass unites Trahan, Longo

St. Joseph Catholic Church in Moss Point formed the setting for the February 28 exchange of vows between Mike Gail Ann Longo of Moss Point and Leo Joseph Trahan Jr. of Pascagoula.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Longo Jr. of Waveland. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Joseph Trahan Sr. of Rayne, La.

Rev. James Taylor, pastor, celebrated a 10 a.m. Nuptial Mass. Rev. Michael Leane of Poyune officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Other concelebrants were Rev. Bernard Farrell, Rev. Patrick McDermott, Rev. Pete Mockler and Rev. John Scanlon. Deacons Martin Finnegan and Victor Baglioni assisted.

The church sanctuary was decorated with two brass candelabras draped with greenery, colored burgundy coconut leaves, and white ribbon.

On each side of the altar were baskets of white gladioli, deep rose heather, carnations, and German statice. Both small side altars held similar fanshaped arrangements in crystal vases.

The pianist for the wedding was Gregory Tucker of Moss Point.

The St. Joseph Choir led the singing of the Mass parts and several hymns. Soloists performing before the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Les Waguespack of Baton Rouge, La.

With the exception of the "Wedding March," most of the music was provided by guitars. Selections before the ceremony included "Sunrise, Sunset," "Sabbath Prayer," "The Wedding Song," and several religious songs written by Mr. Waguespack.

Hymns included "Only a Shadow," "All That We Have," and "Peace, My Friends." "Wherever You Go" was sung during the lighting of the Unity Candle, and "Romans Eight" was the meditation song.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white silk sheerganza over bridal taffeta fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline, full bishop sleeves, and a pleated skirt with attached chapel train. The bodice of the gown was trimmed in re-embroidered Raschelle lace and seed pearls. A Juliet cap of matching lace held a veil of bridal illusion and lace.

She carried a cascade of fresh white bridal roses and German statice with streamers of white chiffon lace ribbon.

Serving her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Norman Collins of Biloxi.

Bridesmaids were Christine Longo of Waveland, sister of the bride; and Madeline Larue of New Orleans, La.

The attendants were attired in long, full-skirted dresses of pink organza over pink taffeta. The modified Queen Anne necklines were trimmed in white lace as were the cuffs of the sleeves and the deep ruffles of the skirts.

They carried bouquets of white silk roses, burgundy century flowers, greenery and baby's breath, with burgundy satin streamers. Headpieces were combs of burgundy and white flowers.

Serving the groom as best man was Bragg Moore of Pascagoula.

Groomsmen were Mark McDuff of Pascagoula and Ted Longo of Waveland, brother of the bride.

Ushers were Tom Longo and Steve Longo of Waveland, brothers of the bride; Ron Hudson of Moss Point, and Bill Massey Jr. of Escatawpa.

The bride's mother chose for the occasion a long sleeved dress of ice blue chiffon fashioned with ruffles at the neckline and wrists. A corsage of white silk butterfly orchids trimmed with white tulle and pink ribbons completed her ensemble.

The mother of the groom was attired in a dark blue long sleeved dress accented with rhinestones. She wore an identical white silk orchid corsage.

A reception followed the ceremony at St. Joseph's Parish Hall. Music was provided by Nicky Gordon of Biloxi.

Each table held a crystal vase with pink carnations and greenery. The main table held an arrangement of gladioli, heather, pink and burgundy carnations, German statice and greenery.

Tea girls who assisted at the reception were Angie Davis of Gautier; Christina Turlan of Waveland; Denise Swafford and Gwen Trochessett, both of Pascagoula.

Pass Library to host education forums

The Mississippi Committee for the Humanities, under the auspices of the Mississippi Library Commission and the Pass Christian Public Library, will sponsor a series of public forums entitled "Education in Mississippi: Past, Present, and Future."

The aim of these forums is to bring the concerned public together with informed experts in order to examine the traditional roles of schools and teachers, the problems that beset education today, and the objectives to be established if education is to keep pace with the demands of the modern world.

The dates, times, and topics of each forum, together with a few questions relevant to each, are:

Wednesday, April 14, 7-9 p.m.

I. Pre-school education: Kindergarten, day care centers, private programs. Should there be compulsory programs for children before first grade? What type of instruction is available now? Which tasks are appropriately handled by a teacher and which by the family?

Wednesday, April 21, 7-9 p.m.

II. Teacher certification. Is the system effective? Does it prepare teachers adequately for the problems they confront? Is it too demanding in some subjects while neglecting others?

Wednesday, April 28, 7-9 p.m.

III. Standardized testing. Is it accurate and meaningful? Does it reflect a realistic evaluation of what is being taught or merely of what should be taught?

All three meetings will take place in the Pass Christian Public Library at 111 Hiern Avenue behind the Pass Christian City Hall.

"Concerned citizens want to hear what others have to say on these issues and will be anxious to contribute ideas. Educators, parents and other concerned citizens are encouraged to make every effort to attend," said Linda Schmitt, head librarian.

ETV Brief

HIGH SCHOOL RIVALS

Basketball is Muncie, Ind.'s most visible form of leisure activity, and the next film in the "Middletown" series examines the preoccupation with being number one. "Middletown" can be seen at 9 p.m., Wednesday, March 31, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Arch rivals Muncie Central and Anderson High meet in a basketball game each must win. Penetrating the excitement and tension that lead to this confrontation, "The Big Game" asks whether high school sports, an obsession for the home community, is an escape from or an imitation of life, a competitive ritual that initiates the players into maturity or scars them permanently.

Pass VFW auxiliary hosts awards banquet

A Red Cross Cardiac-Pulmonary Resuscitation (C.P.R.) Course was sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary to Cecil R. Redwood, V.F.W. Post 5931, Pass Christian at the Post Home, March 16.

Safety chairman, Inez Bourdin, said that the Pass Christian Police Department was represented by Patrolmen Jim Martin and Glen Grice, and the Pass Fire Department by Eugene Dedaux and Ike Stapleton. The course instructor was Leslie Ladner.

Ladies of the auxiliary who participated were Mary Fedele, auxiliary president; Inez Bourdin, Norma Bonney, Patricia Necaise, Margaret Ann Brock, Anne Latino, Mattie Mitchell and Katherine Morris.

The March meeting honored guests Robert Short, district director for Special Olympics for Area 3; and special education teacher, Lisa Marshall.

Mr. Short spoke of the different events in Special Olympics, the voluntary funding, and invited members to the Track and Field Meet at Milner Stadium April 3. He stated the motto of Special Olympics is "Let Me Win, But if I Cannot Win, Let Me Be Brave In The Attempt."

He presented a certificate of participation to the Auxiliary. During the business meeting members voted to sponsor a Veterans' outing to the Strawberry Festival in Ponchartroula on April 17, to cater the Pass High Alumni Banquet on April 25, and made plans for the Past President's Tea at District Convention on May 1.

Delegates were voted for District Convention President Mary Fedele, reported on the V.A.V.S. Meeting. Katherine Morris, Americanism chairman, announced a Poster and Essay Contest for the Pass Christian Schools, and Joyce Phillips, hospital chairman, invited participants at the Veterans' Luncheon March 18, which was held at War Memorial Park.

A silent prayer for P.O.W.-M.I.A.s was offered. Refreshments of pineapple punch, dip and chips, and cookies were served. Post 5931 and the Ladies Auxiliary held an Awards Banquet Friday, March 12 at the Post Home.

Among those receiving awards for cooperation with, and service to the V.F.W. programs were Mayor Gordon Bishop, Fire Chief George Mixon, Police Chief Edward Alley, and Lester Ladner.

Several members of the post and auxiliary were also presented with gifts and awards. The Post honored Commander Jesse Morris, and Auxiliary President Mary Fedele.

Buddy Poppy Chairman Joseph Fedele presented 14 auxiliary members with Buddy Poppy earrings in recognition of their help. Hospital chairmen Lula Vella, Evelyn Lizana, and Bernice Nippo were each given a gift for their excellent work.

An unsurpassed curried shrimp dinner was served to a group of members, their wives and guests.

The auxiliary made a trip to the New Life Home for Girls near Dallas on Monday afternoon, March 15.

The ladies presented a monetary and clothing donation to those who made the trip were Patricia Necaise, District 1 President, Lula Vella, Katherine Morris, and Geraldine Budge.

This donation is part of the Youth Program of the Local, State and National V.F.W. Auxiliary.

FIRST PLACE WINNER—This haunting color depiction by Bay St. Louis photographer Jimmy Lolacano of three ballerinas from a Texas Christian University dance production captured the $100 first place photography award in the recent 20th Annual Regional Juried Art Exhibition sponsored by the There's an Answer!

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE AND
RUTH STAFFORD
PEALE

Wants to quit

Q. I have every reason to be happy, but I feel I have reached all life's goals. I have nothing to live for or work for. At 42 years of age I feel like I want to quit the fight, die and be at peace. I pray that God will take the feelings away, but they are getting worse. I have a morbid preoccupation with death and dying, and I mourn severely even the deaths of people I am not acquainted with. What can put meaning into my life?

A. You have not reached all of life's goals, for one of the greatest of those goals is happiness. So you still have something to work for. Shift your thoughts from death to thoughts of life—life abundant. As you think, so shall you be. And learn to give of yourself to others. That will put meaning into your life. Perhaps you will find help in our booklet "You've Got A Future which is on its way to you. Any reader wishing a free copy of this booklet may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Waiting for miracle

Q. I feel a grave mistake was made when I signed the papers for my divorce, but at the time I felt I had to concede with my husband's request. After 20 years of marriage and three beautiful teenaged children he no longer wanted me nor the responsibility of a home. He was carried away with career success and was involved with a teenage girl and drinking parties. Since the divorce I have read books on the male mid-life crisis.

I have turned my life over to God and am waiting for a miracle to reunite our family. I feel my ex-husband wants his family back but is afraid we won't forgive him. I told him I too was responsible for the failure of our marriage by trying to be a super-mom, super-secretary, super-housekeeper, plumber, carpenter, gardener—you name it. At times I neglected the needs of my husband. For this I feel guilty. Is there any advice you can give?

A. Simply hold-out genuine forgiveness, admit your own faults in the marriage breakup, and patiently prove that you have changed. If your husband returns, let him know you will work with him to have a happy family life. But be humbly willing to accept God's will for your life whatever it may prove to be. Learn from the past and go confidently into your future.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale, write to them at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

"Home" is not home
Q. I am a busy wife and mother. When vacation time comes my mother thinks I should bring my family home to visit. "Home" is in another state, a long way from here. The trips are expensive for us and stressful. Our children do not think of my hometown as their hometown, and my husband is from another part of the country. Besides this, my family's attitudes and actions have not been kind. In short, going home only makes me unhappy, but if I don't go my mother wants me to feel guilty. Any suggestions for coping when I do go?

A. We get the feeling that you have not yet entirely cut the umbilical cord. You still feel when Mama says, "Come home," you must. Yet rationally you know this does not fully make sense, and you must not feel guilty if you don't go.

Here is your big chance to grow up. Call a family conference and let everyone have a say. Then make a unified decision where to go on vacation. And let Mama do the adjusting.

EDUCATION OUTLOOK

By Billy D. Sills, Hancock County School District superintendent

THE LEGISLATORS

This year the majority of Mississippi's legislators turned their backs on education.

School officials would have taken any gift of more state money in whatever size or shape it was offered, but the Legislature played Scrooge instead of Santa.

Educators and friends of education should submit a list of proposals to their legislators in support of education. Hopefully, the legislators will sponsor and support education bills for the next legislative session that will generate more money for education.

Legislators should support: —Using the number of students enrolled in school rather than the number of students in daily attendance to determine how much money a school system will receive; —Ask that textbook funds be allocated on the basis of student enrollment rather than average daily attendance;

—Provide teachers and administrators enough of a yearly raise to keep up with the cost of living and pay the teachers' share of social security and retirement. Also, this would call for a cost-of-living increase to be provided to retired teachers; —Increase the state's allocation for materials, supplies, capital outlay, maintenance of school facilities and transportation; —State support of state-mandated testing programs (grades four, six, eight) and more money to identify, test and educate handicapped students;

—Raising from $2 to $5 the amount of money paid to driver education funds for each moving violation; —Returning excess commission paid to the county through severance tax. At the present time, the county government has increased its share of support for the schools. Although the state has increased the amount of money it spends for education, the state's contribution as a percentage of the budget has declined in recent years.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." —John 10:10

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, BAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

Our culture, whether we realize it completely or not, exerts a very powerful influence on each of us and the way that we live our lives.

For instance, the greatest fear of men for years (and increasingly so for women) has been the fear of failure in whatever their life's goal or occupation happens to be.

Our culture defines what success and what failure is for each of us.

Some reach that unreachable star of success by earning a sheepskin, while others get it by being able to throw a swollen pigskin farther and more accurately than anyone else.

And still others like Howard Cosell achieve success by simply getting under our skin. Yes, more and more we are living in a "win or lose" culture. No longer does the "not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game" rule apply.

The problem seems to be in our value system. American culture says that if you have physical attractiveness that you are valuable; if you have money, that you are somebody; if you have intelligence or much education that you are more important than the next guy.

And that if you are a great athlete that you have somehow risen above the rest and have reached "success" in your life.

It is easy to see how our own values can be a barrier to our ability to enjoy the "abundant life."

It is interesting to note that these values we all seem to cherish so much are not shared with the Creator of this world.

Concerning beauty, Isaiah the prophet spoke of the coming Messiah as one who "hath no comeliness or form that we should desire him" (Isaiah 53:2).

Concerning wealth, he said "lay not up your treasures on earth, but in heaven" (Matthew 6:19).

Concerning intelligence, he said that "I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, the intelligence of the intelligent I will destroy, and I will destroy the understanding of the prudent" (Isaiah 33:18).

And finally, concerning athletic ability, he said "bodily training is of some value, yet Godliness is of value in every way" (1 Timothy 4:8).

Think about it. Jesus claims that you don't have to be attractive, wealthy, intelligent nor even athletic to enjoy the "good life," the "abundant life" that he offers you.

Thank you, Lord, for accepting me just the way I am!

HANCOCK COUNTY ANIMAL CONTROL COMMISSION

P.O. BOX 152

BAY ST. LOUIS, MISSISSIPPI 39520

March 23, 1982

To: Hancock County Board of Supervisors

Mayor of Bay St. Louis

Mayor of Waveland

The Hancock County Animal Control Commission, after more than a year and a half of sincere volunteer effort to assist the thousands of citizens of our coastal communities and their governments to accomplish a vital and extremely necessary health and safety and disease control factor by the erection of a tri-government small animal confinder, finds we are playing a game of Mission Impossible with every handful of people that can be frightened into objection by misinformed organizers.

This commission has been advised by a visit from Master Chief Taylor of the Naval Construction Unit, early in the morning of 23 March, 1982, that if the delay is more than this week, the Naval Construction Support that was saving our taxpayers many thousands of dollars will have to be withdrawn and other missions provided. It took us over a year to obtain this advantage for all our people of this area.

This commission, made up of the County Agent John Smith, and the County Sanitarian Louis Fernandez, representing Hancock County; the Civil Defense Director of Hancock County Robert Boudin, and an animal care specialist with Dr. LeBourgeois, Mrs. Lisa Cowan, representing Bay St. Louis; Emile Malandra and Cel Dumestre representing Waveland; Mr. Jerry Commiskey, an experienced pet shop operator and Mrs. Esther Oschmann representing the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, has from its inception considered the following objectional factors:

NOISE—Dogs bark when someone approaches their area. All sites selected have been off of any traffic or movement in redistricted areas.

ODORS—From the outset sanitation has been the major aim of shelter design.

DISEASE—Capability of putting to sleep and sanitary disposal to include shipment to Jackson for analysis of suspected rabies cases was fully programmed.

DUMPING OF ANIMALS—No site selected was open to the public. All were off roadways. A plan for reception of animals was formulated.

LOCATION—More than 800 feet from the nearest residence.

With the freely given advice of Dr. LeBourgeois and our member sanitarian, this commission was able to arrive at a building design that would eliminate these objectionable factors.

It has been our pleasure to volunteer our services to all the thousands of citizens who would have benefited from this united governmental functions had we been successful. We now tender our resignation with regret and turn this vital government function back to the elected officials of all three governments.

We have from the outset considered we were handling the taxpayer's funds and made all possible requests for donations. Now we must thank sincerely the following:

—The Naval Construction Unit from Gulfport, they were erecting our confinement facility to our taxpayers.

—Dr. LeBourgeois for his assistance in design.

—Mrs. Ethel Shank, for architectural assistance.

—The Engineering department of Coast Electric for preparation of all engineering drawings.

—The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, for their assistance.

—The L&N Railroad, for donations of materials.

—Coast Electric, for donations for materials.

—Owners of Old Industrial Ready Mix site, for donation of fill.

—Mr. Louis Boudin, for donation of plumbing materials.

—Mrs. Mary Boudin, for donation of animal care.

—Mrs. Ethel Shank and Mrs. David Shank, for their assistance in design.

—And all others who donated to help in our construction program.

We thank the citizens of Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland, who have been very cooperative in our efforts to accomplish this vital government function which is the responsibility of all communities.
